GEN. GARCIA OUT OF DANGER.

The Intrepid Cuban Winning His Fight Against Disease. The condition of Gen. Calixto Garcia has greatly improved and at a late hour last night he was considered out of danger.

Dr. Frank Hyatt and Dr. Thomas N. McLaughlin, the attending physicians, stated last night that Gen. Garcia had improved wonderfully and was entirely out of danger. He is suffering from but a slight touch of pneumonia, they stated, and is almost certain to recover rapidly. The work of the Cuban commission has been suspended, owing to the illness of the Cuban leader and nothing will be done until he is able to attend the conference.

Store Will Be Open Saturday Evening.

Going Out of Business!

To whom it may concern:

We have decided to retire from business, and the entire stock, fixtures and lease of this store will be sold at greatly reduced prices to close out. The store was closed Thursday and Friday to mark down the stock, and we will be open this morning, when you may expect the greatest bargains in new and desirable merchandise ever offered in Washington.

Our stock includes brand-new Coats, Suits, Dress Goods, Silks, Linens, and all the hundreds of other things which you would find in a first-class, up-to-date dry goods house.

We have made up our minds to start our sale at once, so that our customers and the public generally may have the full benefit of the great sacrifice we will make in buying their Xmas gifts.

We are gratified to think that no store ever made more friends in the few years we have been established here than ourselves, and we beg to thank you one and all for your generous patronage and to solicit your aid in disposing of our stock.

MR. VANDERLIP'S REPORT

A Preliminary Paper on His Porto Rican Mission.

EVERYTHING GOING WELL

The Custom Collections—The Work of Spanish Officials—The Reports of Disturbances Without Substantial Foundation—The American Troops Well Behaved—The Civil Administration.

Secretary Gage has received a preliminary report from Assistant Secretary Vanderlip, who recently went to Porto Rico for the purpose of examining the revenue and monetary conditions of the island. Mr. Vanderlip's informal report, written under date of November 27, shows that the military authorities are getting along fairly well with customs collections, the amount now on deposit aggregating more than $100,000. Spanish customs officials have been put to work at the various ports, and this system works satisfactorily. The men are honest, and it is thought by prominent military officials that the Government is getting everything it should.

Military officers at San Juan contend that the reports concerning disturbances on the island are without substantial foundation. During the evacuation there were more or less disturbances of a rather personal and private character, but the situation there now is as peaceable as it is in the United States. Within a few days special reports have been received from the mayors of each municipality, and they all unite in the statement that the situation is entirely peaceable and the people law-abiding.

The American troops have on the whole been well behaved and have, according to the testimony of commanding officers, practically no trouble at all. It has been a tremendous task, getting the civil administration of affairs in operation again. Practically all civil administration was at a standstill after the fall of the island. An endeavor has been made to put the Spanish officials, so far as could be done, back in their places and have the civil administration of affairs go on as nearly as possible in the usual routine. At Ponce, where there are some specially sharp politicians, they revived an obsolete autonomist scheme of municipal government and were already ready to put it in force. Gen. Brooke, however, found it of most rigorous and paternal character and declined to permit its adoption, whereupon seventeen of the fairly prominent members of the council resigned. The commanding general has just completed the selection of their successors and municipal affairs there will soon be adjusted.

The American commanding officers have been withdrawing guards from the sugar plantations, and they think this is going to have a good effect. The condition of the plantations is such that they will be able to do the work of the plantations. The work was done by "peons" who receive fifty-five pesos a day on an average and were then subjected to the very worst type of "country store." These stores give short weights in everything sold. Our officers made the owners of the plantations show some sort of fair treatment to the "peons," refused the request for guards and have heard nothing further about riots. It is thought that the withdrawal of the guards from the plantations will work a great improvement, and that has now been accomplished practically throughout the island.

The temperature there continues very high, and although the rainy season seems to be about over, the climate is enervating. It is midsummer heat and no one seems to go out of doors much during the hottest part of the day.

A Veteran's Story.—George Lewis, of Shamokin, Pa., writes: "I am eighty years of age. I have been troubled with Catarrh for fifty years, and in my time have used a great many catarrh cures, but never had any relief until I used Dr. Agnew's Catarrh Powder. One box cured me completely." LIEUT. TIFFANY'S DEATH.

Testimony Before the Alger Relief Commission.

The most interesting testimony given before the Alger War Relief Board yesterday was that of Major A. H. Appel, who was the second witness. Another witness of the same name, Major D. H. Appel, appeared in the morning at the opening of the proceedings.

Major A. H. Appel was in charge of a division hospital at Tampa from May 4 until June 8. He said there was a sufficiency of all medical supplies, etc. He added that the medical department was always prompt in answering the calls made upon it.

After leaving Tampa, Major Appel was surgeon in charge of the medical organization on the Olivette. When that ship started in the service she was provided with enough medical supplies to answer the needs of 200 patients for two weeks. The Olivette left Tampa on July 16, and arrived at New York on July 26. She had on board 276 patients. These, fifty were sick and the others wounded. These men were all well cared for.

The ship was resupplied at New York for the trip to Santiago. Besides carrying all the medicines, etc., needed for the men given to her care, the Olivette had three or four hundred packages for medical officers in the field. The Relief also took over a vast quantity of medicines.

On the return trip, Major Appel asserted, each one of the 200 sick men was properly attended. There was always plenty of food, too, etc. Arriving at Boston, the sick were taken in hand by Dr. Bradford. Asked especially about the case of Lieut. Tiffany, Major Appel said that before the Olivette left Santiago he received a note from Col. Wood, of the Rough Riders, asking him to bring Tiffany back with him. When Tiffany boarded the Olivette, said Major Appel, he was convalescent. He took quinine every morning and evening for the malaria. He was on the deck every day and at no time appeared to be in a serious condition.

Arriving at Boston, Tiffany was given thirty days' furlough. He left the Olivette in the afternoon and Major Appel did not see him afterward. Before leaving Tiffany expressed gratitude for the treatment he had received. It was beyond Major Appel's understanding how he could have survived to death within seventy-two hours after arrival. With regard to the loss of the Olivette, Major Appel said it was undoubtedly the result of carelessness.

Major D. H. Appel was the first witness to state that in regard to the relief of the Rough Riders, he was not in the least involved. He was certain that it was not the removal of Dobson from Montauk to New York City that killed him. He was a good recovery when he was taken to New York, heart failure and a general collapse having overtaken him. It was only because of the pleading of the man's mother that the removal was postponed.

Col. Hecker was recalled and testified concerning reports of the money-making transactions of Abner McKinley in the sale and exchange of transports for the Government. He stated that on only one occasion did the President's brother approach him during his dealings for vessels. He wanted the War Department to buy a certain large. There was no need of the barge and talk about it was promptly ended. He had no dealings, directly or indirectly, with Mr. McKinley.

Two Pointed Questions Answered. What is the use of making a better article for your competitor if you cannot get a better price? As—As there is no difference in the price the public will buy only the better, so that while our profits may be smaller a single sale may be much greater in the aggregate. How can you get the public to know your make is the best? If both articles are brought prominently before the public both are certain to be tried and the public will very quickly pass judgment on them and use only the better one.

This explains the large sale of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The people have been using it for years and have found that it can always be depended upon. They may occasionally take up with some fashionable novelty put forth with exaggerated claims, but are certain to return to the one remedy that they know to be reliable, and for coughs, colds and croup there is nothing equal to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For sale by Henry Evans, Wholesale and Retail Druggist, 233 F Street Northwest, and Connecticut Avenue and 8 Street Northwest, and 1223 Maryland Avenue northeast.

SUCCESSORS TO THE NEW YORK CLOTHING HOUSE,
311---Seventh Street---311

THINGS THEATRICAL.

A rather notable drop in the attendance at the National last night did not prevent the audience present being described as a good-sized one, but, nevertheless, proved somewhat significant when it was considered that, with the exception of Wednesday evening's performance, the then-given performance of "As You Like It" marked the first Shakespearean play Madame Modjeska had offered during her local engagement. The house was an appreciative one, however, and soon proved its readiness to applaud every meritorious portion of the star's familiar portrayal. Madame Modjeska displayed in the work her usual intellectual and scholarly, while her method of acting as they have always been. Her Rosalind was womanly and charming to the last degree—as clever in her lighter flashes as in the heavier work. Less or Loneran accomplished much in the role of Orlando, and John A. Lane, who reads blank verse with wonderful grace and ease, appeared to distinct advantage as the banished Duke. Charles Herman played Jacques; Frank B. Fanning, the Duke Frederick; William H. Young appeared as Touchstone, and Grace Fisher made a girlish and pleasing Clea. The remainder of the cast, which included Anna Daly, Maude Morrell, Wadsworth, George Spencer, Charles Wentworth, and Frederick Vroom, was good. "Mary Stuart" will be done this afternoon, with "Macbeth" as the bill to-night.
